Professional Skate-Adjusters Quarrel Over Territory.

John Harty, twenty-eight years old of 242 West Sixty-eighth street, was stabbed in the right check in Central Park, yesterday, by a sixteen-year-old boy, James Ryan, of 314 East Seventysixth street.

Park Policeman Herget found Harty bleeding from an ugly gash on the cheek, which extended from the eye to the chin. On catching sight of the pa troiman, Harty pointed to Ryan, who was standing near by, with a bloody pocketknife still in his hand, and accused him of stabbling him. Ryan admitted it, but said he did it in self-defense.
